2019: Recognizing the need to support its increasingly diverse client base, Skankane increased its Goods in Transit (GIT) insurance to R1 million.

2020-2022: Amid the COVID-19 pandemic, Skankane adapted to meet new regulations, ensuring continued service for essential goods. The acquisition of a small courier company allowed Skankane to launch an overnight courier service between Gauteng and Nelspruit, enhancing value for clients during challenging times.

Wilhelm Pohl joined as Operations Manager, and Tatenda Marutsi became the Warehouse Manager in Gauteng, strengthening the operational team.

2023: Skankane's leadership structure grew with the addition of Johan Moller as Operations Manager and the promotion of Wilhelm Pohl to General Director. Maritza Du Plessis joined the Operations Team, and new members like Pieter Cook (mechanic), Hannes Steyn (Marketing), and Innocentia Lubisi (Human Resources) enhanced Skankane's expertise. The fleet was upgraded with FAW and Sitrak vehicles, boosting operational capabilities.

2024: As part of a strategic succession plan, Wilhelm Pohl was promoted to Managing Director. Skankane's Nelspruit warehouse achieved food-grade certification, paving the way for new market opportunities. Through strategic partnerships, Skankane can now offer competitive nationwide courier services, solidifying its role as a comprehensive logistics provider.

2025: As the new year starts, we at Skankane Transport and our team are even more ready to continue our journey in logistics with you.

Community Commitment and Core Values

Skankane Transport Timeline

2004: Skankane Transport was born from humble beginnings, starting with a single 3-ton truck and a 1-ton Kia, both operated by the owners. This foundational year set the stage for the company's commitment to reliable, hands-on logistics solutions.

2005: With the growth in demand, Skankane hired its first driver, Ntokoza Mabuza, who has remained an integral part of the Skankane family, representing the company's commitment to loyalty and team culture.

2006: Expansion continued with investments in several MAN trucks and the establishment of warehousing facilities in Nelspruit. This was Skankane's first major step into larger-scale operations, boosting capacity and efficiency.

2008: The company took a leap of faith by adding an International truck with a tri-axle trailer to the fleet, which expanded its long-haul capabilities. The first Operations Manager was also appointed, marking the beginning of a structured operations team.

2011: Responding to rising client demand, Skankane added a UD inter-link truck to its fleet, further increasing load capacity and flexibility for various client needs.

2012: To broaden its footprint and improve logistics efficiency, Skankane opened a depot in Germiston, allowing for smoother operations in the Gauteng region.

2013: Len Mulder joined as Marketing Manager, helping to drive brand awareness and client growth. The fleet, staff, and client base all expanded significantly, solidifying Skankane's position in the market.

2014: Celebrated 10 years of successful operations with a refreshed corporate identity, symbolizing a new phase of growth and modernization for Skankane Transport.

2015: Due to team expansion, Skankane invested in a new office at the Nelspruit depot, supporting the growing administrative and operational needs.

2016: The team moved into the new office building, marking a milestone in infrastructure investment. Skankane upgraded its small vehicle fleet with Nissan NP300s, and introduced a courier service with subcontractor partnerships for remote areas, further diversifying service offerings.

2018: In a move to boost visibility, Skankane updated its digital marketing strategy and launched a series of radio campaigns, connecting with a broader audience and enhancing brand recognition.
